

The Medical Massagesystem

Suffering from a backache? Feeling tense from walking the halls of ILA? How about a massage? Delegates can get a taster of Home Health Products (HHP) Massage System on stand 7a225.

Its bright yellow machine, which can be used on an aircraft, is the first tested medical product to use oscillating massage with infra-red deep heat.

“The machine is very easy to use with 16 programmes to choose from, including a foot massage,” says Alexander Gracin, project leader.

“It expands the blood vessels which results in better blood circulation – the effect is a very pleasant heat sensation.

“Oscillation does not only stimulate the skin and muscles, but also the internal organs. This is good for your health, especially for those who suffer from bad backs,” says Gracin.

The company has 1,800 leading clinics, doctors, physiotherapists, recovery and health centres using massage system successfully. The massage system can also be supplied for private aircraft.
